Title (provisional)	Social Responsibility in European Sport
Programme and Call	2017 Erasmus+ Sport Programme.
Deadline	6/04/2017
Deadline to join partnership	15/02/2017
Project Description	The University of Cadiz is interested in the development, application and the exchange of innovative practices in the area of Social Responsibility in sport. This includes, the creation of networks for their development, identification and promotion as well as to establish a common base in good practice. The most important aspect is the prevention of violence in sport, protecting the physical and moral integrity of the sportspersons. The project is aimed principally at young people but also to anyone involved in sport. It will be based around innovative education processes that promote fair play in sports competitions. University sport has a lot to give in the development of the individual, in the learning of values and above all in the development of transversal skills. Sport is similar to a laboratory of life experience and provides the participants with rich experiences within a controlled and predictable environment. Without forgetting the importance of good health and education with a marked social character with sport serving as the fundamental tool with which to achieve the objectives. It is also desirable that the good practices support the profesionalisation of people working in sport. The project involves the creation of networks between european partners to promote innovative sports education policies and to use sport as a tool for local and regional development and the creation of employment. The University of Cadiz has been working and researching elements of these policies and has put into practice some of the recommended measures with which they have achieved a marked fall in penalization cards for players in sports such as indoor football or handball. These same policies are aplicable to any team sport and to all professionals and non professionals working inside sport.
